Classroom: Sandels 101

A. PET 3323C, Sect. 0010, Functional Anatomy and Physiology II (4 credits)
Format: 100% face-to-face

B. Prerequisites or Co-requisites
Students must have completed PET3322 (A&P I) with C- or better.

C. Objectives and Description

Have you ever wondered how our body maintains a constant body temperature, or produces energy to perform everyday tasks? Understanding human anatomy and physiology is important to your success in the health and exercise sector as it will provide you with a deeper understanding of how the body works. This module is part two of a two semester module that will help you understand not only the parts of the body (anatomy) but will also explain how these systems work (physiology) and their role in maintaining homeostasis. Therefore, the main objectives of this course are for you to be able to: 1) explain and describe most of the major functions of the muscular, nervous, circulatory, lymphatic, immune, integumentary, and reproductive systems; and 2) identify inter-relationships between organ systems involved in the maintenance of homeostasis.

D. Required Texts, Readings, and/or other Resources

Final	Th - Dec 11	Exam 4, 10:00 am - noon / Quiz 4 Due

F. Teaching Strategies

The methods of instruction for this course include lecture, large and small group discussion, and videos.

G. Field/Clinical Activities N/A

H. Expectations/Attendance

University Attendance Policy

Excused absences include documented illness, deaths in the immediate family and other documented crises, call to active military duty or jury duty, religious holy days, and official University activities. These absences will be accommodated in a way that does not arbitrarily penalize students who have a valid excuse. Consideration will also be given to students whose dependent children experience serious illness.

Course Expectations

The most important thing is to participate and allow yourself to be curious and have fun. Anatomy and Physiology is one of the most interesting topics in your degree program, and the great thing is you already know a lot about this topic, as you are a living example. Tips for succeeding in this course include:

- Come to class
- Rewrite your notes in your own words
- Use the class time to learn. i.e. participate in discussion and ask questions.
- Study new material after each class (i.e. read the pertinent section of the textbook, review notes to understand them)
- Take the quizzes early so that you can learn from them
- Find a study partner
- Come to office hours
- Address concerns early in the semester
- Ask questions!

I. Grading/Evaluation

Using the material covered in lecture, in-class discussions, and review sessions, you will have 4 lecture exams (100 points each), 8 quizzes (80 points total), and 4 lab exams (30 points each) over the course of the semester to assess your understanding and ability to problem-solve.

The points you earn from the four exams (4 x 100 points) will be added to the quizzes (80 points) and lab exams (120 points). Your percentage will be calculated out of a possible 600 points.

Exam 1:	100 points
Exam 2	100 points
Exam 3	100 points
Exam 4:	100 points
Lab Exams	120 points
Quizzes (8):	80 points
Total Mark:	600 points (100%)

Exams will consist of multiple-choice and true/false questions. Questions will come from lecture material and in-class discussions. Exams will be given in-person on the dates indicated in the course outline.

Quizzes will be given, via Canvas, to encourage you to engage with the material and allow opportunities for problem solving. You will be given 8 online quizzes over the semester (4 based on lecture, 4 based on lab). You will need to submit all eight quizzes to earn the full credit (80 points). However, you can only submit the quizzes once you have a received an A grade (≥ 93%) on the work. You will be allowed multiple opportunities to retake a quiz until you achieve the desired grade. Each quiz will be open for one week prior to the corresponding exam. Once you have submitted all quizzes with an A grade, you will receive the full credit (80 points) for the work. NO points (0/80 points) will be given for partial completion (completing less than 8 quizzes with A grades). Quizzes will be due the day of the corresponding exam as scheduled for the class. This work should be performed independently and without the assistance of your peers.

Make-up Exams: There are times when you may be ill or have an emergency that prevents you from taking the exam at the scheduled time. Excused absences include documented illness, deaths in the family and other documented crises, call to active military duty or jury duty, religious holy days, and official University activities. These absences will be accommodated in a way that does not arbitrarily penalize students who have a valid excuse. Consideration will also be given to students whose dependent children experience serious illness. Advanced notice for make-up exams must be given in writing and must include official documentation. A 10% deduction will be applied or a different exam given for any unexcused make-up exams given without authorization 24-hours prior to the exam.

You have until September 12th to re-schedule Exams 1-3 (by email) for any reason without penalty. These re-scheduled exams may be taken up to one day prior or up to 6 days following the posted exam date.

Grading Scale:
The points you earn from the exams, quizzes, and lab will be added and the sum will be divided by 600. I round up (from X.5) ONLY if you attend class regularly. Questions about rounding will result in NO rounding of grades.

A = 93-100%
A- = 90-92.9%
B+ = 87-89.9%
B = 83-86.9%
B- = 80-82.9%
C+ = 77-79.9%

C = 73-76.9%
C- = 70-72.9%
D+ = 67-69.9%
D = 63-66.9%
D- = 60-62.9%
F = below 59.9%

Academic Success

Your academic success is a top priority for Florida State University. University resources to help you succeed include tutoring centers, computer labs, counseling and health services, and services for designated groups, such as veterans and students with disabilities. The following information is not exhaustive, so please check with your advisor or the Department of Student Support and Transitions to learn more.

Free Tutoring from FSU

On-campus tutoring and writing assistance is available for many courses at Florida State University. For more information, visit the Academic Center for Excellence (ACE) Tutoring Services' comprehensive list of on-campus tutoring options - see http://ace.fsu.edu/tutoring or contact tutor@fsu.edu. High-quality tutoring is available by appointment and on a walk-in basis. These services are offered by tutors trained to encourage the highest level of individual academic success while upholding personal academic integrity.

J. Academic Honor Policy

The Florida State University Academic Honor Policy outlines the University's expectations for the integrity of students' academic work, the procedures for resolving alleged violations of those expectations, and the rights and responsibilities of students and faculty members throughout the process. Students are responsible for reading the Academic Honor Policy and for living up to their pledge to ". . . be honest and truthful and . . . [to] strive for personal and institutional integrity at Florida State University." (Florida State University Academic Honor Policy, found at http://fda.fsu.edu/academic-resources/academic-integrity-and-grievances/academic-honor-policy)

Please be aware that using social media to collaborate on and share course exams or assignments with other students that are not identified by the course instructor as group work is a violation of the FSU Academic Honor Policy.

K. Americans with Disabilities Act

Students with disabilities needing academic accommodation should: (1) register with and provide documentation to the Office of Accessibility Services; and (2) request a letter from the Office of Accessibility Services to be sent to the instructor indicating the need for accommodation and what type; and (3) meet (in person, via phone, email, skype, zoom, etc...) with each instructor to whom a letter of accommodation was sent to review approved accommodations. Please note that instructors are not allowed to provide classroom accommodation until appropriate verification from the Office of Accessibility Services has been provided. This syllabus and other class materials are available in an alternative format upon request. For the latest version of this statement and more information about services available to FSU students with disabilities, contact the:
